"Marriage of Figaro" Promises Howling Success

Combines Humor, Greatest Music.

When the Nine O'clock Opera company presents its modern English version of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" in Waverly, this city will hear one of the greatest of all comic operas, belonging to the select company of Verdi's "Falstaff," Rossini's "Barber of Seville" and Wagner's "Meistersinger."

The story is based on Beaumarchais' "Le Mariage de Figaro." Mozart used the play and asked Lorenzo da Ponte, Josef II's Latin secretary and literary genius, to make a libretto from it. Da Ponte, by the altogether odd sort, ex-professor, and a born companion of Casanova, was just the man to make a guy, witty libretto from this ribald, political satirical play.

The opera premiere took place in Prague on May 1, 1786—an historic date of which the city has always been proud—and was from the first a howling success.

"Marriage of Figaro" is a combination of many elements of greatness. Musically, it is the highest work of genius, filled with such popular and beloved arias as "Non piu di andrai," "Voi che sapete" and "Deh Viene, non tardar." Dramatically, it presents an unrivaled series of living characters—Figaro, Susanna, Cherubino, Count Almaviva, the Countess, Dr. Bartolo, and the rest.

To appreciate it fully, one must understand not as well as one may. That is why the Nine O'clock Opera company's Figaro will be produced in English, so that audiences all will receive its full effect at the story at the same time that they enjoy the music.

No, It Didn't Happen Here

The worst is tough on absentminded professors.

Recently, one of the demented creatures, a Westminster college, New Wilmington, Pa., professor was turning along to meet his second class of the morning in his proper order. In one hand he carried a book; in the other was a pipe; in the other he had his grade book and a pencil. He was on his way to the cafeteria.

Then he collected a corpse; he stopped at a mail box. He did not discover until he got to the classroom that he had mailed his pipe, his property and his grades, brought the letters with him.

It was a shamed-faced prof who utter went to the postoffice to recover his property and mail the letters.—A.C.P.

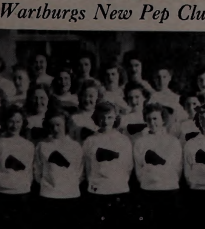
Introducing Wartburgs New Pep Club



"One of the peppiest organizations ever to originate on the campus"—that's the Pep club. It's surprising what 30 girls can do working with a little organization. The idea of the club is credited to the student senate and their efforts have already paid dividends. The Knights haven't lost a game when the club was on hand to encourage them.

HILTNER AT PARISH BOARD MEETING

Dr. John Hiltner left Monday, Feb. 7, for Chicago to attend a meeting of the Board of Parish Education of the American Lutheran church. Old Man Trumpet - Expands

Pull speed ahead! That is the slogan that was adopted by the now portly reorganized Trumpet staff. With everyone working at high speed, "Old Man Trumpet fat he had all the reason in the world to feel proud and demanded more room to expend with joyous pride."

The Trumpet staff has been: Doris Brunfelt up in his overcoat, leading your humorist in his large cold room. "Dean," he says "why don't you turn on the oil heater and let me have this room?" So he Dean, who is a good friend of Old Man Trumpet, pocketed up and left.

It wasn't easy for Ora Mae Thompson to leave his cozy little room in the basement of O. M.

Speech Department to Present Plays to Woman's Club

On Feb. 28 the Women's club of Waverly will sponsor three plays at the American Legion hall. The plays will be presented by the speech department of Wartburg college.

The general meeting will be open to the public and all people needs will be used to buy War bonds. Bus will leave at 6:30 in the evening of the performance. The plays are sent out by the Women's Division of the War Finance Division, U. S. Treasury Washington, D. C.

The plays include "What They Have Done to Us," "Days Work for America," and "Victory Is Our Task." All the plays are under the direction of Miss Mayfield, Wartburg speech instructor, and Mrs. Hartberg of the Women's club.

Rognes, Braulick Speak to Students In Daily Convos

Dr. Braulick based his talk on Monday, Jan. 31, on Psalm 104:15, "And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make his face to shine, and bread which strengthened man's heart." God brought the children of Israel out of the bondage of Egypt, but they did not appreciate it. The story of the deliverance of Israel is the story of us today. "There is only one thing important in this world," "Most of us are strangers to happiness. We do not know how to be happy if you don't know what you want and what you want to be," Dr. Braulick pointed out. Everyone has a purpose; be contented with what you have to offer, do your best to do, and be of service to your fellowmen.

LUTHER LEAGUE LENTEN SERVICES START FEB. 21

Wartburg's annual "Religious Emphasis Week," sponsored by the College Luther League, will be observed during the week of Feb. 21-25. A different speaker will be present at each service. Professor Otterstad will conduct the service on Tuesday, Feb. 22, and Rev. C. G. Stalkbumer on Friday evening. There will be services at St. Paul's on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 23.

The services mentioned as well as the whole week have been a joint enterprise of the students and the faculty. A special offering is to be raised during this week which is for the needy of Lent. Both the students and the faculty will be contacted personally for a donation. The money that will be secured in this way will probably to purchase a cross, and if possible a candlestick for our Convocation Hall's altar, or for add to a organ in the Memorial Dorm. This mission has as its pastor, Rev. A. Schumacher, former student body president and graduate of this fall's inaugurated church service.

The services here at the college will be at 8:30 p. m. every evening except on Friday, when the service will start at 7 p. m.

ROGNESS SPEAKS TO LEAGUERS

Rev. A. Rognoss, Lutheran youth leader and pastor at Mason City, Iowa, was the featured speaker of the part week at Luther League on Sunday, Feb. 6.

Mr. Rognoss spoke on motives in choosing one's calling. Basing the "third-hearted" or practical motive on Matthew 6:33 or unselfmental reasons, and the Christian motive of gratitude.

There is nothing extraordinarily interesting about a vocation for practical purposes stated Rev. Rognoss. There is merely a method for improving one's personality. Christian motives and mental reasons for Christian gratitude. He also told us to hold affection for loved ones, and we enjoy music in our daily life.

Reverend Rognoss concluded by saying that the greatest reason for doing good is that of Christian love for God and that all the blessings showered on us by God. Therefore, we should remember the deeds of kindness are rejected, we should not be angered as we have already received countless rewards from our Heavenly Father.

Children's Home Sponsors Lectures

A series of lectures on social work was given at the Lutheran Children's Home in Waverly on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 10 and 11. Miss Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Illinois Lutheran Children's Home Society, Lincoln, Ill. was the chief speaker. Miss Taylor is well known in all the state, students from the Wartburg seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, and several college students attended the meetings.

Rev. Thornshirn's discussions were supplemented by addresses by Rev. Henry Whiting, executive secretary of the Lutheran welfare association, Milwaukee, Wis.

Shantytown-13 On a Match

"Anybody want some fun?" Hot dog! We're on the trail of finding the youngest organization — Shantytown-13 on a match. Shantytown's matchmaking to be bustling at the end of the month. Shantytown is having some new and different entertainment for the boys and girls of Shantytown-13 at their parties. Just ask any Shantytowner. Shantytown is going to have with cakes, candy, ice cream, and entertainment with a real town—in complete with mayor, police officer (protect), health, and sanitary officer (protect) galore—city council and many technical—fire dept. and the like. Shantytown-13 is the place—just drop of the treasury—and the date—the end of month—forget, registration—that's on the bulletin board in the dorm. Shantytown will be a second floor representative to promote favorable relations with foreign cities down under!

Party platforms! You bet. To install covenors in the good form to abolish the song "Marzy Dotes" from the radio and to build up quiet (!) (?)—and last—but not least—to promote a real, honest, perfect day with their own Shantytown. Be protected by Shantytown's officers.

With Malice Toward None . . .

Abraham Lincoln represents at its best the response of common man to the opportunities and the challenge of democracy. His career demonstrates that humble birth need not be a handicap under free institutions. The epic of his successful efforts for self-improvement is an inspiration for all who face a struggle in order to get ahead. His rise to power is proof that under democracy no doors are closed to the deserving.

Sometimes the struggle to advance hardens heart and soul and destroys the capacity for kindness and sympathy,—the man who in success is hailed as great may have admirable qualities but lacks humanity. Lincoln is the living proof that this need not be so. Admirable qualities, indeed, he possessed in abundance, firmness of leadership, inflexibility of noble purpose, devotion to the infinite capacity for self-sacrifice. But the is remembered best for warm-hearted humanity, gentle kindliness, deep and true sympathy for frailty and suffering.

If in our day, as in his, democracy is in jeopardy, Lincoln's example may reassure us, that the struggle to maintain that system of freedom which made it as possible, is worth any cost. His unyielding determination to preserve human dignity and liberty may inspire us to risk the utmost in the same cause. His great, infinite capacity for charity for all . . . to do all which may achieve a just and lasting peace," may guide us as it applied, may give us reason to hope that our generation may contribute toward achieving for mankind what he achieved for our country.

Food For Thought

Why can't Wartburg have a victory garden? This project has worked favorably at other schools and it could work here! Bennington College is producing food on 100 acres of farm land comprising part of the college property. It is becoming largely self-supporting as far as food is concerned. The same system is used at St. Olaf, and the quality and quantity of the food in their cafeteria speaks for its success.

Why couldn't Wartburgers work on the campus here instead of on farms ten miles away? Many have farmers' parents anyway and we can think of lots of fellows here who would gain a lot of practical experience by learning to manipulate a hoe.

Perhaps in a year, the food situation will be still more critical. A lot of food, ordinarily used for home consumption, will be sent across to help feed the millions of Europeans who are starving. Spring isn't far off — better give it some thought.

We couldn't help but notice the esprit de corps that exists between the seminary and the college when the Knights played the two games in Dubuque. Almost all the study halls were dark both nights as the Sem boys turned out to watch the Knights play.

The cheer leaders certainly made a big hit at Dubuque. With the help of the tremendous vocal ability of the fairer, gentler sex from the Sem. The Navy cheer leaders did their best to out do them, but failed. It's that famous Wartburg spirit and it can't be suppressed!!

Some mighty good compliments were given to that spirit by Dubuque students of both Loras and the University.

Library Corner

Just in case some of the new students and some of the old students have forgotten, here are some library reminders.

1) Library Hours:
Monday-Friday, 7:30-9:30, 7:30-10:30, Friday-Saturday, 7:30-9:30.
Saturday—8:00 to 12:00; 1:30 to 5:00.

2) Reserve books are due before 4 o'clock each afternoon.

3) Magazines are also due before 4 o'clock each afternoon.

4) Bound magazines are not to be taken from the library unless you know the library receives about six weeks after the publication date and watch the bulletin board just in case your issue is one of the few. Our most recent books of general interest are:

a) Here is Your War, by Ernie Pyle.

b) Twenty best film plays, edited by Gassner and Nichols, and Walter Liggman.

c) World History of Art, by Cheney.

d) Languages for War and Peace, by Bell.

Next time, the Library Corner will give some brief reviews of new books in hand.

Three new magazines have recently been added to the list of periodical lists. They are Foreign Policy Reports, a bi-weekly publication; Foreign Policy Reports, is issued semi-monthly and offers an excellent opportunity to become well informed on various questions of world and "practical" problems. Political Science Digest first appeared in January and articles are presented in popular form, with content regard for technicalities incomprehensible to the average reader.

International Conciliation is a monthly magazine published by The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Each publication includes a thorough treatment of one timely article of international interest, written by an authority. Its style and content is more technical than the former two but is highly recommended for reference.

These three periodicals have been inserted in proper order in the magazine shelves and the faculty and student body are invited and urged to make good use of them.

Knights In Service Plan to Return

Rev. C. G. Shalkhauser, director of public relations, disclosed recently that his department has now begun a post-war student plan for Wartburgers now in the armed services, who plan to return to school after the end of the war. This is in harmony with a recent resolution of the National Board of Education and is announced by Shalkhauser from army and navy training centers at Fort Custer and Wurtsboro college.

According to information supplied by the Associated Collegiate Press, Dr. A. J. McKelway, head of the teachers college at the U. of South Carolina, has completed a survey among army A. S. T. P. students which shows 41 percent of them expect to attend institutions of higher learning and 59 have done their part for Uncle Sam.

by spirited yells and snappy marches.

Rev. Alvin Rogness, the guest speaker on Monday, Feb. 7, told us of several narrows through which we must go if we desire more freedom. As an illustration he placed a map on the base of Acro, then followed its course through the various fields till it finally reached the longest body of water, the Pacific ocean. He then applied this to our life. He said that the first field is the Bible, and on the Sea of Acro we may do just what we want to within the pale of discipline of the narrows. Next we are called to our respective homes to continue the doctrine of repentance.

He said, "The tragedy of life is that man is just drifting—going with the prevailing current. Pray for the post-war world depends on people who stand on their own two feet, paying no attention to drifting and being guided by God."

A movie showing the construction of the Alcan highway on Tuesday, Feb. 8. This newly built highway is the shortest and most constructed by the Fairchild Aviation Corporation.

He said, "The text of my sermon I shall take from the first chapter of Proverbs 17:24. The wise man and his eyes are applied to the people of today. He said his aim in life was to help others do things for away. Man has always been on the search for certain things, three of which are mentioned here.

The first of these, beauty, can be found in our every day surroundings. He said that we see beauty in the sky, but that it also has about us everywhere. The second of this, that of wisdom, is to us. Our eyes should be open to things of the spiritual realm. Also, is the thing that for which man has sought for centuries, and as, "Read happiness is found right here at home; it is called contentment."

Debate

The Wartburg Players met Wednesday evening, Feb. 9 for a business and social meeting. During the business meeting, it was decided to have all students who are interested in joining the club to make out their regular membership. Edwin Neumann gave two readings, one entitled "Marriage" about Neal Coward's play, "The Layer," and the other, one he had seen in Chicago. She also discussed the plan for the production of the next play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which the Wartburg Players plan to present.

The Debaters and Orators will begin work for the state debate tournament to be held in Cedar Falls in March. Two candidates will be selected in this forum with the exception of after dinner speaking.

At its last meeting the Chi Rho adopted the new project of assisting with the supervision at recreational activities at the Children's Home. Students are assigned to a group of youngsters and have full charge of recreation for one evening every week. This includes such activities as gym periods, workshop periods, play groups, story telling, and many casts. Both students and children have enjoyed the activities very much this season and while only ten students are at present, this number gives promise of growing to details of the system are worked out.

The January program of the Chi Rho consisted of a brief discussion of the interracial-congressional meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Chicago, which Dr. Reu is attending and which probably to the Wartburg Chi Rho chapter, and the miss Jarvis, a negro girl. All will agree that the topic of discussion is of prime interest to many of Wartburg's present College and future prospective, by Rudolf Jay respective boy friends.

The discussion was taken over by our popular professor, Dean Fritz. He first pointed out that once very carefully to be certain he would not criticize any of the listeners, but perceiving that each one was particularly sitting on the edge of his chair with anxiety, to give a gist of reassurance and proceeded in a low casual tone.

He touched upon very interesting and valuable points on the topic, "Confusion and Evasion," and also showed some

Knights Win One, Lose Two in Conference Play

Hertelmen Nearly Upset League Leaders in Last Game

Loras Rallies to Win 45-32.

The Navy-augmented Loras Duhawks pulled away in the last five minutes to defeat the Wartburg Knights 45 to 32 at Dubuque last Saturday night.

The game was a second loss for the Hertelmen and the fifth straight conference win for the Loras five, putting them in undisputed first-and sole occupancy the Knights into a two-way tie for fifth in the Iowa Conference.

The Lutherans did not find the customary ease as Sough at Dubuque, and kept within two or three points of them up until the last five minutes when the Duhawks got loose and forged away with six quick buckets. The score stood at 28 to 23 with five minutes remaining.

The Knights played slow even ball against the loop-leaders and were able to hold them to their lowest conference score this season.

Paul Keller and Ed Fritschel, Wartburg guards, were on the floor only list and were unable to play their usual high-scoring style of ball in the short time they were in the game.

Bill Pender, highly touted scorer of the Duhawks, was cold as ice to tally 12 points, thanks to some swell guarding by the Wartburg five. He led the scoring column, however, for the winners, followed closely by Sweeney, the captain, who accounted for 10 points. Keller, Jamestown, N. Dak., forward, led the losers with four goals and one free toss for nine points.

The Knights lost two regulars by the foul route.

W.A.A. Girls Lose Two Games

The newly-organized W. A. A. girls basketball team dropped their first two games of the season to Finchford and Plainfield last week.

In their first game the sextet traveled to Finchford and took it on the chin by a score of 29 to 25.

The girls found themselves unorganized in the first half and were unable to hit the net for more than a point, trailing at the end of the period. Their eyes and outscored their opponents 14 to 1 in the second half, intermission read Finchford 28, Wartburg 9.

The Wartburg six, captained by Phyl Henn was weak on goals from the scoring 11 attempts out of 17.

Jane Buechele led the locals with 13 points, followed closely by Phyl Day, who tallied 11.

On Feb. 8 the Plainfield girls came to Wartburg and downed the locals 25 to 20. The lead jumped back and forth during the first three quarters with neither team being able to establish more than a 2-3 point margin. Three basket-by Ruth Out-of-bounders at the beginning of the third quarter made the battle-top great for the Wartburg six to overcome and the Plainfield girls were unable to keep the lead until the final horn.

Stevens, forward for Plainfield, led the evening's scoring with 9 field goals for 18 points. Jane Buechele led the Wartburgers with 2 field goals and 5 free tosses for 9 tallies.

SPARTANS HALT KNIGHT'S WINNING STREAK

The Wartburg Knights found their luck all to the contrary as it just as tough on the basketball court as it is on the high seas and dropped their first conference game of the year to a fighting team of Dubuque last Friday night.

The lanky sailors of Dubuque found the ball rolling, scored the shooting, and decided heath to the fighting advocates and subdued the Hertelmen 38 to 28 for the Knights first loss since their trip to Minnesota Dec. 3 and 4.

Though the score does not indicate it, the Sailors had their trainees on their toes during the entire game, and it was a fighting set a high pitch until the final gun.

Although there was much fast-breaking and fine passing in the game, comparatively few fouls were called, and refereed soon, hence much on presentable.

Dubuque came forward, who has been making a habit of being the high scorer, with 12 points by Lowell Koch. Knight honors were played by Klein, game defensively.

Norman Lutzen played his best game of the season for the invaders, and had the honor of scoring 11 points. Merle Kleen, forward for the Knights, played consistently and offensively, led the Knights in scoring.

Looking 'Em Over

By JACK MEYER

You're probably wondering why this column is being written by so many different sports-writers lately. The explanation is that the writer-in-charge of the Trumpet staff I was made sports editor. I hope I can do as good a job in my new position as he did.

It made us pretty proud when we could read in the paper that the Wartburg Knights had won seven straight games and were on the leaders of the Iowa conference. Now we read that they have lost two more games and have dropped to fifth place in the conference standings. Such is life, however, and it comes with a sudden downward trend. If Wartburg students and alumni ever had a right to be proud of a basketball team, it is now. Some one has to be on the short end of the deal at Dubuque, there was no glory left on the contrary we played prestige. The boys were now children and we're glad they were, they were tall, very tall, men from all over the country. Probably a level-headed coach would have figured that these boys had been touring the state and conference scores; we kept the Dubuque Sailors from scoring more than 38 points. I think this is a good test of school spirit. Let's prove that we can support our team regardless of the record we read in the papers.

If one thing stood out at Dubuque U. and Loras, it was the type of school spirit. It is not original, but it do think there is something lacking. The students at the university do not look upon basketball as more a part of the U. but as part of Navy. Their undergraduated record doesn't mean as much to them as would a record of an all-civilian team. Their attention is not focused upon the navy for cheering; their every leaders are navy men, the biggest part of their entertainment is navy. Personally, I'm thankful Wartburg is an all-civilian school.

The Wartburg arms was the last one for two of Loras' starting five, and it is rumored that more of them are scheduled to leave. Dubuque is starting to look like a navy training station, and every game with them here. There is nothing sure as yet; it is possible that Wartburg's basketball team is final. What a thrilling end of season for in this old Iowa Conference race yet!

The Wartburg Knights travel again today to play the Coe five in a non-conference contest. The Hertelmen have defeated the Coe boys twice this season on our floor by big scores, and are to be the favorites in tonight's game. The boys are not taking this game too lightly, however, as they realize that Coe has a fighting team that is pretty tough on their own court with that kind of defense. Boost the Knights!

Spring Sports.

According to Dr. Hertel the prospects for spring sports aren't too bright. In all probability most of the conference teams will not have spring sports this year, and in order to maintain non-conference games, there is always the traveling problem to consider; at least 15 men would have to travel. There seems to be a lot of track talent on the campus, especially in the weight division, but there will probably be no opportunity for them to show their prowess except in conference meet at Dubuque late in the spring. Very few of our track potentialities have had any training. Dr. Hertel is also very great weak in baseball material. There was no organized football team, and if it comes to the worst our boys can't have college-sponsored sports, they can have intramural competition to fall back on. A well organized intra-mural program is also recommended by the student body, coaches, and faculty as the best way in aiding the place of varsity sports. It's up to us, let's help out!

Let's get close now with this thought—School spirit is not a passing fancy; it's an institution!

Due to traveling difficulties, man-power shortages, and the like, the Wartburg Knights have a schedule for the remainder of the 43-44 season has been drastically a great deal. Buena Vista has cancelled all future games, leaving the one scheduled against Wartburg Feb. 18, because of a lack of male students. Since we cannot play them, the waiver trip has been cancelled and the Hertelmen will meet Morningside Viets or Western Union this season.

The following is the revised schedule:

Peacocks Bow to Knights 61-40

The Knights had little trouble in trouncing the Upper Iowa Peacocks for their seventh straight win and their fourth conference win in as many starts. This win gave the Hertelmen temporary leadership in the Iowa conference.

It was evident from the start, big whistle that the Peacocks had a cavalier attitude toward the game and their rushing tactics threw the Knights off balance for the first few minutes.

Merle Kleen and John Keller came through with a couple one handers to get the scoring spree that was needed to set em up for the one-sided triumph.

The game was marked by fouls and three men from each team were ousted on the game because of infringing.

Keen, forward, led the Wartburg five in the scoring column with 16 points, but several points shared by Stevens with 14 and Burson with 11, followed by John Keller with 9 tallied by Brown, Peacock center, led the losers with 11.
